2. Global EbA Fund (ecosystem-based adaptation)

Institución / país	Global EbA Fund (IUCN / UNEP / BMUB)
Dirigido a	Profesores e investigadores
Plazo	Cut-off dates for Concept Stage submission: 30 April 2021 at 23:59 UTC+2 30 August 2021 at 23:59 UTC+2
Información / postulación	https://globalebafund.org/
Descripción general	The Global EbA Fund provides rapid and targeted support through seed capital for innovative approaches to ecosystem-based adaptation (EbA). The Global EbA Fund grant selection criteria concern both the proposed project and the wider context for its implementation. Global EbA Fund grants should be complementary to and add value to existing work, by filling a gap in an existing project, enhancing the impact of an investment in EbA, contributing to policy upscaling of EbA, and/or serving to develop a larger proposal to another funding mechanism. In summary, the Global EbA Fund supports projects that... • Contribute to the implementation of ecosystem-based adaptation and aligns with the FEBA EbA Qualification Criteria & Quality Standards. • Result in catalytic impact, such as by piloting innovative approaches for EbA, removing barriers from upscaling EbA interventions at the policy or landscape levels, strategic and focused EbA policy mainstreaming, supporting innovative finance mechanisms for EbA, incentivising private sector investment in EbA, and supporting unlikely matches between partners. • Add value to or upscale existing work. Projects should fill a gap in existing work, address a knowledge gap, contribute to policy upscaling, enhance the impact of an investment in EbA, and/or serve to develop a larger proposal to another funding mechanism. Projects should leverage existing knowledge, standards, partnerships, experiences, and best practices or filling gaps therein to facilitate increased uptake and/or impact of EbA. Global EbA Fund projects should not be standalone interventions. As such, projects should not focus primarily on field implementation of a new intervention in the scope of the proposal, though field implementation may be a component. • Create impact with a Global EbA Fund contribution of USD 50,000 to USD 250,000 and are either global, thematic, or targeted to one or more countries which are eligible for official development assistance (ODA). The Fund will accept and review applications year-round and make biannual funding decisions. In 2021, the biannual funding decisions will be in July 2021 and November 2021. The cut-off dates for consideration will be April 30, 2021 and August 30, 2021 at 23:59 UTC+2, respectively. Applications received after the cut-off dates will be considered for the next round. Successful applicants will be invited to submit a full proposal, including due diligence processes. These applicants will then have six weeks to submit their full proposal.

3. Social Science Research Council (SSRC) – Democratic Anxieties in the Americas Research Grants

Institución / país	Social Science Research Council (SSRC) – Estados Unidos
Dirigido a	Profesores e investigadores
Plazo	May 9, 2021 11:59 p.m. (US EST)
Información / postulación	https://www.ssrc.org/fellowships/view/democratic-anxieties-in-the-americas-research-grants/
Descripción general	The Social Science Research Council (SSRC) invites proposals from across the social sciences and related fields that address the challenges facing democratic societies across the Americas. This collaboration between SSRC's Anxieties of Democracy (AOD) and Drugs, Security and Democracy (DSD) programs seeks to support research that (i) deepens understanding of key challenges such as democratic erosion and authoritarian drift; political inequalities, including voter suppression; political mobilization and participation of women and minorities; and corruption and the rule of law; and (ii) employs a comparative perspective or is relevant to a comparative dialogue on the sources of and solutions to democratic anxieties in the Americas. Request for Proposals: Public concern grows about the efficacy of democratic institutions in the face of rising inequality, the spread of populism, and the spread of disinformation, political polarization, and distrust. These challenges have both distinct histories and are shaped by broader political, economic and social forces that have long contributed to the fragility of democracy in many countries in the Americas. Thus, across this region, democracies have much to learn from each other through comparing and juxtaposing their histories, cultures, and politics. While there are many important issues to be explored in this regard, this Request for Proposals seeks to mobilize new knowledge on two key themes that offer the basis for particularly fruitful regional comparisons and dialogue: (i) political representation, political participation, and inequalities; and (ii) judicial politicization and the judicialization of politics. Eligibility Criteria:

The SSRC invites proposals for Democratic Anxieties in the Americas Research Grants from researchers—based at both academic and non-academic institutions—who meet the following minimum requirements:

- Researchers who have received their PhD in any social science discipline or related fields within the last five years or who have reached ABD status and are writing a dissertation toward a PhD in the social sciences and related fields.
- Applications must focus on countries from the Americas.
- Applicants must reside in a country in the Americas.
- Submission of a project proposal on a research topic that relates to one of two themes described above as well as all other requested documents via apply.ssrc.org.
- Contribute an essay based on the research to SSRC’s digital forum, Items: Insights from the Social Sciences.

Applications are welcome from researchers based in any country in the Americas and may be submitted in English, Spanish, or Portuguese. In particular, we encourage the participation of researchers who are part of historically unrepresented or underrepresented groups in research communities.

Awards will range from US$5,000 to US$10,000, with larger amounts directed to projects committed to transregional research partnerships (two or more researchers based at two or more institutions across the Americas). Proposals in all disciplines of the social sciences and related fields will be accepted, provided that all the eligibility criteria listed above are met.

Descripción general	Note: All applicants for the RSA Policy Expo Grant need to be current paid up RSA members at the time of application and must remain in membership through the period of the research up to and including the point of acceptance of the final report and grant deliverables. (in any category except Corporate) (Info: <https://www.regionalstudies.org/about/memberships/>)

Policy Expo Grant: The Association seeks a leading and impactful role for its community, to inform and influence policy and practice in creative and ambitious ways. The aim is to support Expos addressing issues that are important, current and having an impact on society. These Expos will investigate how the communities of regional studies, regional science, urban studies and related fields can respond to new societal challenges and opportunities.

The Expos will deliver a policy focussed, clear and evidenced book for launch particularly within the relevant practice-based communities and to the academic community through the Association’s membership benefits and wider book sales. The RSA provides funding of £15,000. This includes the cost of a book publication and launch for which £2,000 of the grant will be retained by the RSA.

Applications are invited on the following themes:

- Pandemics: Regional Resilience and Regional Policy Responses
- Social Innovation, Foundational Sectors and the Regional Economy
- The Future of Work, the Gig Economy, and Inclusive Growth

The two key deliverables from the Expo are:

- an article for Regional Studies, Regional Science with the APC sponsored by the Association from the withheld portion of the grant (articles will be subject to peer review).
- a policy-facing book in the new RSA Impact and Policy Series. This would be a minimum 25,000 and maximum 30,000 word policy-facing It could be in the form of a report or edited papers with an introduction and conclusion. It must include an executive summary highlighting the policy implications from the work, and it must be accessible to policymakers and practitioners.
